Allergen Control Policy

Allergen containing ingredients are stored in such a way as to prevent potential for cross-contamination of other materials. When allergen containing ingredients are received, they are slotted in designated areas for storage.

Allergen containing raw materials shall not be stacked directly above non-allergens, different allergens or packaging materials. Pallets with products that contain multiple allergens are stored in a manner that will not cause an allergen risk.

Food allergen awareness training is provided to personnel including new, full time, part time and temporary employees on a yearly basis or as needed.
